

ITLogica Holdings, LLC Announces the Acquisition of KamTech Systems

Global Sourcing Provider Acquires Leading Utility Consulting Practice

Atlanta, GA – March 12, 2009

ITLogica Holdings, LLC (www.itlogica.com) announced today the acquisition of KamTech Systems (www.kamtechsystems.com) a software systems design, development, implementation and support consultancy focused on the utilities and energy industry. This acquisition capitalizes on the synergy and success of the partnership formed between ITLogica and KamTech Systems earlier this year.

“ITLogica’s acquisition of KamTech represents our commitment to expansion in the utility and energy industry” said Marcel Sarzen, President of ITLogica. KamTech will operate as an independent division of the parent company (ITLogica Holdings, LLC) with a continued emphasis on successfully implementing business solutions and supporting a wide range of critical utility systems. The attraction of KamTech was their 10 year history of providing real measureable value to their clients and their focus on delivering every project on time and on budget. “Our plan is to expand on their successful track record by offering new services and capabilities through ITLogica’s global sourcing model” stated Marcel Sarzen, President of ITLogica.

Brian Hermann, Co-Founder of KamTech said that “The KamTech leadership team is very enthusiastic about this new chapter. We just passed our 10th anniversary and we are ready to take the company to a new level. We believe this is a giant step for us to remain a leader in the utility and energy industry as well as a huge opportunity to expand and grow our business with new service offerings.”

About KamTech Systems

KamTech Systems, headquartered in Columbia, SC, is a software systems design, development, implementation and support consultancy focused on the utilities and energy industry. Established in 1999, KamTech provides expert solutions for IT systems in the utility and energy industry. Our core strength is full life-cycle knowledge and support for financial, customer information and billing systems. Our knowledge and experience with all aspects of Utility systems provides our clients with peace of mind, knowing that the deliverables they receive are the best solutions possible.

About ITLogica

ITLogica Inc. is a global sourcing consulting firm with over 8 years experience in delivering complex business solutions throughout North America to the Animal Health, Utility, Consumer Product and Health Care industries. The ITLogica delivery model enables our clients access to value based solutions including: resources for project management, strategy and design teamed with talented, cost effective development and testing resources. The company is headquartered in Atlanta, Georgia with a development and testing center in Nanjing, China. As a global sourcing provider, our clients benefit from a talent pool of U.S. based senior consultants as well as the Nanjing team of business analysts, testers and programmers resulting in a more efficient cost structure and a faster time to market for our customized solutions.

Contact:

Howard Medoff
Business Development Director – KamTech Systems
hmedoff@kamtechsystems.com
770.335.9145